*I love to travel - as a child and teenager, I grew up in 3 different countries and traveled extensively with my family. Within the US, I have lived in 5 different states, finally falling in love with Arizona and moving to the Phoenix area in 1999.

*I love to teach - my initial focus was special education, and I taught Junior High for several years. I am still a teacher at heart, and have carried this approach over into real estate.

*I am passionate about local small businesses and a green, conscientious approach to life. I actively take part in several communities having to do with these issues, and also am a certified EcoBroker.

*I love living in the beautiful Arizona desert with my husband and our wonderful little pets!

Gregory Test is a Realtor and a Certified Negotiations Expert, originally from the Jersey Shore, he moved to the Phoenix Valley as a student in 1997. In the process of finishing two degrees in Business and Information Technology, he fell in love with the climate, sunsets and all the desert has to offer and naturally stayed.

His love for real estate started as an investor in rentals and remodels and lead to him becoming a full time Realtor. The fact that he has always enjoyed meeting new people combined with his love for remodeling and looking at homes makes real estate a natural fit. By combining his experience from other fields with his many years as a Realtor and negotiator, Greg brings a refreshing approach to real estate that does away with the dog and pony show of yesteryear and focuses on communication, honesty, problem solving and his client's needs.

Gregory M. Test is – The Most Interesting Realtor in the World!
